Bedroom Eyes

Brian glances at my reflection in the corner of the mirror.

"Almost done..."

He can do his make-up much faster than this but he's enjoying being watched and making me wait.

Eventually he turns around and tilts his head with practiced nonchalance.

"What do you think?"

I push myself off the wall and approach.

He's still sitting so I tower over him. I grab his chin, forcing him to look up at me.

Charcoal and silver with touches of bronze make his blue-green eyes pop.

"Too pretty for your own good."

"Perfect. That's what I was going for."
